BOYS HIGH SCHOOL. Annual Grade-Excellent Showing in Plant

The following is made up from the monthly reports of the year, the first column showing the relative grade of the members of the several classes for the session just closed. The second column gives the number of plants and trees analyzed, and the family, germs and species determined by each pupil. The boys have done unusually good work in this branch of study, one-third of them having made botanical analysis of a hundred or more plants during the current season, eight of them making 250 or more, and three boys having each determined more than five hundred different species since February last. Some of these lads are not only skilled but enthusiastic young botanists, who have been scouring the country for miles as well as visiting all the greenhouses and gardens within reach. This knowledge thus pleasantly acquired will contribute very greatly to their intelligent enjoyment of nature as long as they live.

IMMENSE POPULAR DEMONSTRATION

neaster in a Blaze of Popular Enthusiass Last Night—The Streets Packed With Shouting Democrats—Fire-works, Oratory and a Monster Pro-

Hancock, English and Victory.

The demonstration gotten up in this city in honor of the Cincinnati nominations last night deserves to take rank as one of the most remarkable and spontaneous popular outpourings that has ever been witnessed. The city appears to be electrified by the names of Hancock and English, and in the brief notice furnished by the call published in the INTELLIGENCER last evening, the population turned out en masse to lend their presence in honor of their nominations. Long before dark the INTELLIGENCER office was surrounded spiring Democrats, and the frequent proposals of "three cheers for Hancock and English" were answered by such roars as were calculated to make the average Credit Mobilierite shake in his boots. As night fell a profuse discharge of fireworks was inaugurated upon the roof the Intelligencer building, and the dense mass of humanity which had blockaded the street in front of the office changed its position to the Centre Square front, where the sight of a portrait of Gen. Hancock, projected upon a screen by means of a "magic lantern," set the crowd wild with delight and the welkin rang with hoarse cheers. Rockets went whizzing toward the heavens, and manycolored roman candles and other pyrotechnics illuminated the scene and gave to it unparalleled brilliancy that only augmented the intense enthusiasm of the multitude. About 8:30 the Eighth ward boys came marching down the hill with drums beating and banners inscribed with appropriate mottoes. They were received by the great satisfaction and will receive solid surging crowd around the Intelligencer building with a roar of welcome which they | club and number over two hundred membravely answered with three cheers and a bers. tiger for the Democratic nominees. The great cannon crackers continued their din, the rockets still went whirring through the vaulted sky, till about 8:45, S. W. Shadle, esq., mounted the steps in front of the monument and briefly addressed the immense throng. He said he knew this mighty multitude was in no humor to W W Fowler 72 80 Wm R Peters 43 30 listen to a speech or a discussion of campaign issues. We are simply assembled for the purpose of congratulating ourselves upon securing such men as Hancock and English to head our ticket. [cheering.] All of the candidates are now in the field, and I say to the Republican party that they must stand ready for a mighty charge all along the line. For we will charge all along the line and charge boldly and intelligently and charge home; and let them understand that when the people ratity the nominations of the Cincinnati convention as we ratify them tonight, the people, in their power will see to it that the verdict is executed. As far as yonder stars are above the ground we > men whom the Republicans have put before the country, and an intelligent people will signalize their appreciation of their superiority by rolling up such a majority for Hancock and English as will require a microscope to discover the remains of their opponents. [Prolonged laughter and cheers.] E. D. North, esq., next addressed the crowd. He said it was with great pleasure he witnessed this great outpouring of people. It is conclusive evidence that the Democratic lightning has struck the old Republican hulk below the water line. [Cheering.] It is not necessary to go over the records of the candidates, because both are known to the land. During a dozen battles of the rebellion Gen. Hancock snatched victory from the jaws of defeat. Remember him at Gettysburg, at Antietam ["and at the Wilderness" called some one in the crowd] and at the Wilderness. [Wild cheering.] He stood like a wall in the valley of the Chickahominy, and as he led his men to victory there, so will he lead us to victory. His nomination has struck a chord which called up this meeting and is ringing tonight in every town in the land. When he is inaugurated, and inaugurated he will be if elected [cheers] he will carry out those sublime principles that are emblazoned on our banners. He represents that great party which has builded up our country. which has prosecuted her great wars against our enemies. When the ides of November shall come you will find the true men of the land standing shoulder to shoulder, arm to arm as they have stood by Hancock in the days of old-At the conclusion of Mr. North's speech, which was greeted with wild enthusiasm, the crowd formed in line and marched over the following route, Clemmens's city band having a position at the head of the

Along the route of the procession, during which a continuous discharge of fire crackers and pyrotechnics was maintained, crowds lined the entire route, and greeted the procession which numbered probably fifteen hundred men, with continued cheering. Many houses were illuminated, and the ladies waved their handkerchiefs in response to the enthusiasm of the marchers. The banners with stirring mottoes were cheered, the band was possessions were princely, and his cattle cheered, the drum corps, everybody came fed upon a hundred hills. and then the crowd went home.

How Columbia Took It.

At Columbia last evening the members of the Keystone Democratic club filled with patriotism and enthusiastic admiration of the character of the Democratic nominee, Winfield Scott Hancock. "The soldier and statesman with a record as stainless as his sword," formed in procession and started on a walk-around headed by the Citizens band, twenty pieces, H. S. Graybill marshall. Over 300 members of the club were in line. Starting from the club house on Third street, they marched up Walnut and over the principal streets of the borough, and countermarched on Locust street. We have seldom if ever seen a grander sight in the town, the town was fairly ablaze with rockets, Roman candles, red and green lights.

The wildest enthusiasm prevailed whenever the names of Hancock and English were mentioned along the line. The procession halted in front of the residences (on Second street) of H. M. North, esq., by a great crowd of enthusiastic and pre- and Gen. William Patton, each making a ringing campaign speech. The speakers were frequently interrupted with applause, and at the conclusion of their eloquent addresses, three hearty cheers were given for Hancock and English. William B. Given, president of the club, also made an address in front of the club house, and was Zahm's Corner, well received.

Everything passed off in the most orderly and pleasant manner, and the meeting adjourned with three rousing cheers for Hancock, English and victory.

Marietta in Line.

The Democracy of Marietta had a grand rally last evening. They ratified the nomination of Hancock and English by illuminating their club room, which is one of the finest in the county, and a street parade with 200 voters with torches and banners in line. They flung to the breeze a banner twenty-four feet long and three feet high, with the inscription of "Hancock and English" club on it. The nominations occasion support in November; we have started a Funeral of General John A. Sutter—Dis-tinguished Mourners at the Grave of the California Pioneer.

Litiz yesterday was the scene of considerable bustle, consequent upon the funeral of General John A. Sutter, prominently identified with the discovery of gold in California, and one of the foremost pineers in its earliest settlement and development. Every train arriving on the Columbia and Reading railroad up to 2 o'clock, the hour fixed for the funeral services, brought its full quota from neighboring towns, while by the New York train came the following delegation of the New York society of California Pioneers, of which Gen. Sutter was for many years the president.

Here they were viewed by his former associates and neighbors, when the cortege proceeded to the Meravian church, in the upper end of town, where the funeral services were conducted by Rev. Charles Nagle, the musical portion of the liturgy being conducted by the choir and congregation and a sextette of trombone players, the latter performing a dirge as the body arrived in front of the church and on the way to and at the burying ground in the rear.

In the church, the Rev. Mr. Nagle, after the religious portion of the exercises, gave a brief biographical memoir of the

To the last General Sutter was a great reader and had an extensive correspondence, and wrote and spoke well and fluently French, German, Spanish and Italian as well as English. He was extremely polite and affable, free from affectation, and fond of entertaining the large number of friends who sought him out in his quiet retreat. He leaves a wife, about 75 years old, in feeble health, and two sons and a daughter, one of the former, John A., being United States consul at Acapulco, Mexice, and the other, Emil, consul of Greece at San Francisco. The daughter. Mrs. Dr. Link, also resides at at Acapulco The son from San Francisco was on his way to attend his father's funeral, but did not arrive in time.

The body has been embalmed, it being the intention of the society of California of the Pennsylvania college, Getteysburg, Pioneers to remove it, with the remains of his wife, upon her death, to that state There were a number of beautiful floral tributes, that of the Pioneers' society, a pillow of white immortelles, with the words, "We loved him," interwoven in letters of smilax, being conspicuously handsome. While the services were in progress the "Bear" flag of the Pioneers (antedating the Stars and Stripes in California) was hung at half-mast in Mineral P. J. Roebuck, A. B. Reidenbach, Samuel E. Grosh, Samuel Foltz Henry Kautz and George Ochs, escorted by the Pioneers as a guard of honor. Before the body was committed to the grave General Fremont said that he could not let the occasion pass without paying a parting tribute to his old friend, who met him, on the occasion of his first visit, thirty-six years ago, with the most generous hospitality. The members of the club are highly elated over Hancock's nomination, and as they worked for the General first, last and all the time, and were instrumental in bringing out Daniel Dougherty to make the nomination speech.

It is generally conceded among leading Democrats who were at Cincinnati that the nomination of Hancock was due in a great measure to the efforts of the club. Americus club badges were at a premium last evening in Cincinnati, and were sought for by leaders of all the various factions.
